

PRE KHMER WALL SCULPTURE

We reached far back into history to bring the Pre-Khmer Wall Sculpture into being, referencing the ancient empires that existed in Indochina before the ninth century. Though this coppery-hued sculpture looks as if it was carved from stone or molded from clay, it is fashioned from composite that we've treated to a warm finish. The real-like resemblance of the humans that peopled Cambodia so far in the past and the authenticity of the decorative accents they would have worn are design details of note.
